The dispatch adds that Major-General Courad, chief of the Austrian general staff, virtually has been deprived of all power, on account of his alleged condition resulting from the death of his son, who was killed in action.

Dealing with the removal of General Auffenberg from his command, the correspondents assert, this action was taken ostensibly because of the general's ill health, but that in reality it was due to his move on Lublin, which was due to his move of the general forms of the gen

FOR HARMONY AND UNITY AMONG CHRISTIAN SECTS

Pleas Characterize Principal Addresses at Opening of International Conventions of Disciples of Christ.

ATLANTA, GA., October 7.—Pleas for harmony and unity among Christian sects and nations, and vigorous condemnation of the European war, characterized the principal addresses delivered here to-night at the formal opening of International Conventions of the Disciples of Christ, representing approximately 11,000 churches of that denomination in all parts of the world. The chief speakers were Dr. Hill M. Bell, of Des Moines, lowa, president of the convention, and Dr. Robert E. Speer, of New York City, a secretary of the board of foreign missions of the Northern Presbyterian Church.

Referring to the war, Dr. Bell declared:

Captive Balloons and Powerful Searchlights to Point Out Positions and Blind Defense Used by Kaiser's Armies.

PARIS, October 7 Captive balloons o discover and observe the movements of the allied armies, and powerful searchlights to point out the positions and to blind the defense during night attacks, are being used by the Germans in the great battle to the north and east to Paris, which still is without definite result.

Military science frequently is lost sight of, and the contest becomes merely the hurling of forces against one an-

Night combats have become an important element in the action. They are frequently forced by the Germans and as often are repulsed by the allies and as often are repuised by the allies. They are telling on the stamina of the troops on each side, many of whom already are worn out on the firing line. The French public are patiently awaiting a decision. The changing actions at various points along the battle line, as indicated by the War Office statement, furnish opportunity for diversified comment, as to their significant. versified comment as to their signifi-critic of La Liberte, sees in the latest manoeuvers of the Germans, an elo-ment of daring. A large spreading movement on the flank of an adversary, he says, can have the inconvenience, generally grave, of enlarging the space which exists between the moving troops and those on the front. This must necessarily have a reasonable limit under the risk of transforming the plan into a detached operation simply which would be very perllous for those executing it.

for those executing it.

Such a movement, moreover, says
Lieutenant-Colonel Rousset, has scarcely a chance of succeeding, and only so when not discovered, which does not appear to be the case, judging from the War Office statements.

MATERIAL ORGANIZATION OF GERMANS PRAISED

General Pierre Cherfils declares the material organization of the enemy is powerful, and that all the French wounded are unanimous in saying that the Germans have had excellent practical instruction and that from a technical point of view they fight with a remarkable method.

The Germans first lines of march. General Cherfils continues, are covered with sheaves of corn or are well concealed otherwise. In advance of them are their cilte marksmen. Nearly all the French officers who lost their lives, says the general, were killed by these fires, who always were hidden. Their junction with diverse units is complete, and the accord between the artillery and the infantry is of a permanent intimacy. The infantry advances only when supported by the artillery.
